DEATH OF CAPTAIN STUART K. REID, M.C.—A very sad feeling prevailed in Cuckfield last week-end on it becoming known that gallant young Captain S. K. Reid, Royal Sussex Regiment, had died from wounds received in action in France on 29th July. He held the Order of the Nile, and had served in the Gallipoli and Palestine campaigns, and his abilities and charming manner highly impressed those in authority and also his men, whose welfare was ever near to his heart. He was the youngest son of the late Mr.
Percy Reid and of Mrs. Reid, Mill Hall, and prior to the outbreak of war actively interested himself in the Volunteer movement. He had a fine presence and wealth; he was a good sportsman and the soul of honour, and had he been spared he would have gone far. That he fought for England —and died for England—is something for his widowed mother and brothers and sister to be proud of. That he played a man's part will ever redound to his credit. It will keep his memory green for years to come.
