

Littlehampton Observer 17th January 1917 page 4

THE CHURCH'S WAR WORK.—A very interesting lecture was given at St. Martin's Hall on Monday evening by the Rev. Dr. Mullins upon the work of the Colonial and Continental Church Society, of which he is a representative. The object was confined to the work the Chaplains of that Society are doing in the war zone at the present time, and the lecture was made the more interesting by lantern illustrations shown by Mr. L. M. Fleetwood. Many of the photographs were taken by Dr. Mullins himself when at work on the continent, and the views of places before and after the war made one feel how little we in England realize the terrors of the war. The aim of the Society is to provide the Englishman with his own Church and religion, both in the Colonies and on the Continent, and when the War broke out the Chaplains of the Society were invited to return to England, but they one and all stuck to their duty as soldiers of the King and our British soldiers have found great help and benefit from them. One view was given of a scene in Holland at the time when the three ships Aboukir, Cressy and Houge were sunk. The bodies of the sailors were continually thrown up on the shores of Holland and the Rev. Teesdale was going backwards and forwards burying his brave countrymen, the picture showed the graves of many of them. One especially interesting picture was a photograph of the Rev. H. S. T. Gahan, the Chaplain of Brussels, who with his wife had stuck to his work for the Master, and was the clergyman who attended Nurse Cavell through her great trial and on the eve of her death. Many pictures were shown of the different places where the war was making havoc. The Rev. J. Henderson opened the meeting and before the close Dr. Mullins appealed for help to carry on this noble work. The local Secretary is Miss Downer, Litten Terrace. The Rev. C. E. Steinitz closed the meeting with prayer.